PIONEERS IN MICHIGAN TERRITORY

This is the sixth in a series of biographies of early Michigan settlers written by GSWC members who have received a Michigan Sesquicentennial Pioneer Certificate. The documentation for the stated facts is filed under the name of the pioneer in the Library of Michigan, Lansing, Michigan.

JONATHAN THOMPSON AND FAMILY, PIONEERS

Jonathan Thompson, my Michigan pioneer ancestor and a soldier of the American Revolution, came to Michigan Territory along with several of his grown children and settled in Washtenaw and Jackson Counties.

Jonathan Thompson, whose parentage is unknown at this time, was born 21 April 1762 in Stamford, Connecticut. At the age of seventeen he joined the Connecticut troops as a fifer and later served as a private and was in the battle of Monmouth. He married first Katherine Hanford Smith and had four children by her. Shortly after her death he married on 24 July 1790 in Norwalk, Connecticut, Elizabeth Raymond, who was born in Norwalk on 5 August 1770 to William and Ruth Hoyt Raymond. Jonathan and Elizabeth moved to Half Moon, later called Waterford, Saratoga County, New York, where their seven children were born. The first child, a son Jeremiah born 1793, died in infancy. The family moved to Moreau, Saratoga County, New York and then to Batavia, Genesee County, New York.

Jonathan's sons, William R., born 1795, Jonathan, Jr., born 1798, Hiram, born 1800 and Jeremiah, born 1808, came to Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, in 1827 and then returned to get their families and parents.

While on a land-looking trip, William R., Hiram and Jeremiah travelled west from Ann Arbor to visit the site of the future Jacksonburgh and on arriving at a large lake on the east side of the present city limits of Jackson, Jeremiah said that that was where he wanted to live. The lake, which was named Thompson Lake, no longer exists, but is shown on the 1858 Jackson County Atlas. At present the Sparton Corporation on Ganson Street, the Sportsman's Club and the Sun Valley Mobile Home Park are sited on the former lake bed. The lake was supposed to have reached to Porter Street on the northeast side of Jackson.

In 1830, William R., Hiram and Jeremiah returned to the Jackson area along with Isaiah W. Bennett, Benjamin Packard, E.W. Morgan, Chauncy C. Lewis and others. William R. Thompson and Isaiah W. Bennett located on land adjoining Horace Blackman's purchase. Their purchase was land on the west side of the Grand River, extending from the present Trail Street on the north to Franklin Street on the south and running along the bank of the river on the east, containing about 150 acres. William R. Thompson, Isaiah W. Bennett and Horace Blackman shared equally in platting the village of Jacksonburgh.

Hiram Thompson and John Wickham, a millright, and others occupied a double log cabin while working to build the mill on the Grand River. This log cabin later became a public house and post office.

Hiram Thompson was the first to get sick with the "chill fever." William R. Thompson's son William D., age twelve, was the first death in the village. He was killed by a falling tree and was the first burial in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery, Jackson.

The first town meeting was held at the home of William R. Thompson. Among those present were Hiram and Jeremiah Thompson.

William R. Thompson sold his interest to Isaiah W. Bennett and returned to Ann Arbor Arbor where he was Assessor in 1835, Supervisor of the Township in 1836, Trustee and, in 1843, President of the village, and later an Associate Judge of the Probate Court. William R. was one of the commissioners of the first railroad from Detroit to Marshall. He was also one of the five pioneers to donate forty acres to The University of Michigan. After the Mexican War William R. moved to Austin, Texas, where he died on 15 April 1852.

Jonathan, Jr., known as John, stayed in Ann Arbor where he became the proprietor of the Washtenaw House for his brother William R. Jonathan, Jr. was in the Toledo War and Black Hawk War. He married, probably in New York, Esther Tuttle. John died in Ann Arbor on 16 Feb 1881. His wife died a few months later at the home of her son Clement in Battle Creek. Both are buried in Forest Hill Cemetery, Ann Arbor, along with their son Edward. Clement is buried in Kalamazoo.

Jonathan, Sr., as stated previously, and his wife followed their grown children to Ann Arbor about 1828. Elizabeth Raymond Thompson died in Ann Arbor on 24 November 1833 and was reportedly the first burial in a plot given by Anson Brown, later to become Fairview Cemetery. Her grave-site now is in Forest Hill next to her son John. After the death of his wife, Jonathan remarried and came to Jacksonburgh to live. He died 16 May 1847 and is buried in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery.

Hiram stayed in Jacksonburgh and after the death of his first wife, Mary Canfield, he married Lurinda Gilbert and lived in Concord, Jackson County. He was the first postmaster of Jacksonburgh and carried the first mail from Ann Arbor in his hat. He was Clerk, Register of Deeds, and then a Judge. He later moved to Osakis, Minnesota, and died there in 1879.

Jeremiah asked his first cousin, Charlotte Cramer, to marry him in New York. She refused and married instead John Lyon. Jeremiah went to the Black Hawk War and upon his return he found Charlotte to be a widow with seven children including three step-children. She was living on the edge of Thompson Lake. He persuaded her to marry him and they had five more children. Jeremiah was a farmer and a Biblical scholar. Their descendants have stayed in the Jackson area. Although Jeremiah was not as politically active as his brothers, he was a farmer and a pioneer who helped Jackson County develop from the wilderness to the present industrialized and farming communities that exist today. He and many other ordinary pioneer farmers made all this possible. Jeremiah and Charlotte and some of their children are buried in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery.

Elizabeth Maria Thompson, the third child of Jeremiah and Charlotte, was born 9 January 1849 at Jackson. She married on 20 January 1873 in Brookfield, Eaton County, Michigan, William B. Dutton. They resided in Albion, Jackson County, and were the parents of six children. Elizabeth and William are the great-grandparents of the writer.

Della Thompson Lutes, well known Jackson authoress, was related to the Thompson family. Two of Jeremiah's daughters married Dutton brothers. In MillBrook, a novel loosely based on the personalities in the village of Horton, Hanover Township, Jackson County, Mrs. Lutes mentions the Dutton boys hunting on their farm. She stated that she always changed the names of people upon whom she based her characters but that she felt free to use the names of her relatives.

JULIUS BOLLES, CALHOUN COUNTY PIONEER

Julius Bolles migrated to Michigan from Schenectady, New York, in 1836. He was a middle-aged man with several grown children. One of these was my great-grandfather, Benjamin T. Bolles. We do not have a birth date or place of birth for Julius. He and Benjamin came to Michigan together and bought a number of government land parcels in northern Calhoun County. Other family members followed and also bought land. Julius Bolles died in 1842. As he had no will, it took several years to settle his sizeable estate. The record of this settlement is in the Probate Office in Marshall, Michigan. Beneficiaries in the estate were his children: Elisha, George Nelson, Benjamin T., Emily, Amanda, Harriet, Sylvia, Mary, and William S., and a granddaughter, Sophia Burgess, daughter of Joanna Burgess, deceased daughter of Julius Bolles. Also included was Ruamy Bolles, wife of Julius Bolles. We do not know if she was the mother of these children because she was not mentioned in the family notes passed on to me by my mother. Some of these family members were buried in the Samson Cemetery in Marengo Township, but most of the stones have been vandalized.

Benjamin T. Bolles was born in 1813, probably in Schenectady, New York. As stated above, he came to Marengo Township in 1836. In 1843 he married Corlinda Lattin (born 1824) who had come to Michigan with her father, Daniel Lattin, from Vermont. Benjamin and Corlinda had three children: Julius Stephen, Lucy, and Myron (born 1848). The first died at four years. Lucy lived to marry but died leaving a young son. Benjamin died in 1852, leaving Lucy and Myron little orphans. Family members took care of them for several years but at about age 13 Myron went to work for his keep. He lived with and worked for Edwin B. Carrier, also a Michigan Pioneer and later to be his father-in-law. When he was 21, Myron began farming on his own and married his first wife, Anna McGee. She was consumptive and died within a year or so. In 1877 he married Ella May Carrier (born 1858). Being a very industrious man, he eventually purchased the Carrier family farm in the Rice Creek area of Marengo Township from his father-in-law. Myron and Ella had six children: Ethel, Cecil, Cornelia, Olive, Burt, and June.

Cornelia Bolles (1883-1971) went to Ypsilanti Normal College and became a teacher. She married Harold B. Weeks (1884-1951) in 1909. They lived in Albion, Michigan, and had six children: Monfort, John, Margaret, Cecile, Richard, and Barbara. Barbara Weeks married John P. Bentley in 1942. They have one son, John Geoffrey Bentley, born in 1948.

JOSEPH BENTLEY, CALHOUN COUNTY PIONEER

Joseph Bentley (1811-1888) was the 11th of 13 children born to John and Ann (1771-1851) Bentley in Yorkshire, England. Names and birth dates of the children are listed in a 1792 Bible inscribed "Ann Bentley's Book, March 03, 1815." Two children died before the family left England for New York State in 1819, where they settled in Middlefield, Otsego County.

In 1836 Joseph and his next older brother moved to Michigan, settling in Convis Township, Calhoun County, where Joseph engaged in farming. Records show that he and George bought the homestead farm together in the winter of 1836/37. John and Ann Bentley removed to Convis Township in 1842 from New York State as did other family members. Their graves are in the Porter Cemetery in Convis Township. Only one marker remains - John's has disappeared.

In 1841 Joseph married Louisa Ryant (1815-1884), born in Connecticut. Her obituary says she came to Michigan in 1837 with her parents, Daniel and Lydia Lord Ryant. We find no data on Daniel. Lydia we can trace to Thomas and Dorothy (Bird?) Lord who married in England about 1610, and came to the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1635, being among the first settlers of Hartford. Except for the obituary we could not establish that the Ryants were also "Michigan Pioneers" for certification.

While residing in Convis Township, Joseph served as supervisor 1857-1859, and again 1861-1864. An innovative and successful farmer, he introduced the Maury reaper and mower to the township, and also the first seed drill. In 1868 he removed to a property in Marshall Township where his son Charles purchased a neighboring farm, now the site of Marshall's High School. The house and some outbuildings remain and can be seen just south of I-94.

Joseph and Louisa had five children. Three girls died as infants. Charles Richard (1844-1892), the second son, married Anna Claflin Moses (1851-1943), who was born in Mendon, Monroe County, New York. Their youngest of five children, Jerome Charles (1886-1978), married Edna Lucille Lusk (1892-1985). John Pershing Bentley, their third of four children, was born in 1918 and married Barbara Weeks in 1942. They have one son, John Geoffrey, born in 1948.

The Name Index to Family History Capers (1988-1989), Volume 12, is an every-name index. Cross-references have been made for some possible variations in surname spellings. Maiden names, where known, are indexed. An unknown given name is indicated by ... and an unknown maiden name is recorded as (...). An illegible part of a word is recorded a ---.

Family History Capers is published quarterly by The Genealogical Society of Washtenaw County, Michigan, and is available with membership. Memberships begin with the fiscal year on July 1.
